It would not accept them as a forerunaer of the exthat the average merchant or foreign resident in this part of the world would bear comparison with the corresponding representatives in Europe or America. Probably his impulses are even more generous than his compeer at home, and his liberality and charity are such as must cover a multitude of sins. This being our estimate of the mercantile communities of China, it will at once be seen why we should seek to advocate the claims of these bodies to so fair a reputation. Anything, therefore, which seems to mar the good name of foreigners in this country is a thing to be seriously considered and vigorously dealt with, the more especially when the entire flock, the system of abuse which has crept into Gardens. the working of the Transit-pass privilege

winked at hitherto is no reason why they should not now be worried and driven out of every respectable commercial community in the Riverine Ports; and we hail with pleasure the prospect which Consul Alabaster holds out of opening a erusade against such a blot upon the integrity of foreign commerce. It has been said, and we believe with some truth, that a few Americans vie with the few Britishers in this mean evasion of duties which are paid by more honest competitors. This conviction was doubtless the main reason which induced Dr. Macgowan (himself an American) to speak out so strongly on the subject some four months ago. In an address which he delivered, before the North China Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society in March last, the learned Doctor thus expressed himself:--"It is a fact that ought not to be concealed, that Chinese and Foreign relations in Szechuen are not a little strained by what the Chinese call 'pseudo-foreign commerce,' that is, the covering of Chinese goods by a foreign flag to evade inland taxation. The Yangtze is the only great river controlled by a single State, which is open to foreign commerce. The Emperor of Brazil has been greatly lauded for throwing the Amazon open, but the Amazon is under his control only through a part of its course. If then the navigation of the Yangtze by foreigners is an exceptional privilege, any abuse of that suls for the United States at the ports where this abuse is known are fully alive to their responsibilities, it will therefore become their duty to assert the principles of honesty and put a stop to such unfair dealing on the part of American citizens. It is alleged by many persons conversant with tradal movements in the North that several foreign firms exist solely by infringements of the Treaty in this respect! How then can it be expected that the Chinese authorities, with such knowledge, will give a ready ear to foreign grievances. even if well grounded. But there is also this other side of the question to consider. Such instances of pettifogging dishonesty, which are as for beneath the respectable foreign merchant as they are unworthy of any dweller on these coasts, militate directly against the speedy spread of tradal facilities throughout the Treaty Ports. The most persistent efforts have been made to obtain an extension of the Transit Pass privilege to ports in the Kwangtung province, and these have hitherto met with but indifferent success. Now there is not the slightest doubt that this obstruction was caused directly by the reports which reached the Chinese authorities, through the Foreign Customs, as to the doings of the few freeand-easy "straw men" in the Riverine Ports; and to these so-called merchants. who dodge the revenue for the benefit of themselves and their native clients. the merchants of South China owe their present lack of the privilege thus so grossly abused. All honest men and honourable merchants will. we are convinced, heartily approve of any measures taken to sweep away

THE Prince Pojarsky, Russian steam frigate now in harbour, will leave here in a few days for Yokohama, where she will join the China Squadron as a reinforcement. She is an iron built ship with plates of 9 inches in thickness, her tonnage is 4,450 and she carries a crow of about 450 all told. Her armament consists of 12 guns of large calibre, and she will form a powerful addition to the Russian fleet in these waters. She was launched in 1865, and for the last two years has been oruising in the Mediterranean. whence she has come direct to China. It is stated that still further additions may shortly be expected to the naval power of the Czar in the China seas. The Russian Consul, A. Andre, Esq., paid a visit on board this morning, and was accorded the usual salute on leaving the ship.

The booklet is divided into two parts, the first dealing with the means to be employed for the resuscitation of the apparently drowned, (for which the plates used, which add so much to the meaning of the text, are provided by the Royal National Life-boat Institution), and the second on the treatment of opium poisoning, the popular mode in modern times of suicide, and of opium smoking. THE latest news from Amoy concerning the Cheang Hock Kian case is brief, especially that which comes in a public form. The Amoy Gazette, to which we looked for a full report of this important and extraordinary case, has only the following short para-

Chinese Passengers Act. This omission of all details may arise from the Consul's Court not having been open to the Press. This closed-door style of transacting such public business, if there has been such here, is greatly to be deplored in the interests of the public, and in the interests of the administration of camera, or if the Consul is willing to place the depositions in the hands of the Pressto which there can be no reasonable objettion on public grounds—we may yet have a fuller report in the column's of our small, but enterprising Amoy contemporary. As abe did not leave that night, and as the suspicions of the Consul were aroused, she was prevented from leaving next morning, by H. M. S. Sheldrake, with the commander of which the Consul (Mr H. A. Giles) had been in communication. On the steamer being boarded she was found to have on board 429 passengers over and above the number she could properly carry under her certificate. For this offence the fine of £5,000, in lieu of confiscation of the vessel, was inflic'ed by the Consul, acting under the sections of the Merchant Shipping Act dealing with this offence. We hear that there was no evidence connecting the Captain or any Monk; Cantate, No. 72 Monk; Deus Mi. of the officers of the vessel with this breach of the law, the matter of seeing to the Ubinese passengers being one coming more within the province of the supercargo than within the subject matter of their special duties. Hongkong, July 17. Sir.—The tempestuous weather that we may usually expect at this season of the year is always more or less an anxious time o the floating population, and it is well that dangers ahead should be pointed out whenever they are noticed. Presuming that the Harbour Master's Department is in some measure responsible for the general supervision of the harbour, I would ask that the Government appoint an independent person to examine the state of the Pier at low water. In the opinion of many practical men, this massive construction, should we have a typhoon, would certainly be carried away, parting from the main structure at low water mark. A large portion of this erection, so carried away, might be driven down the harbour and so do incalculable damage at such a time. This may be an interference with private property, and matter to public notice; but as grave feare are entertained by competent persons as to the safety of the Pier in its present condition, I think it right to remind the Governat the expense of the district occupied by ment Department that they owe to the public, SCRUTATOR.

CHUNG HOW PARDONED.

We make room for a decree which has been published in the Peking Gazette and is translated by the N. C. D. News virtually pardoning Chung How. The decree, our Shanghai contemporary informs us, " was issued on the 26th June, and was communicated to the several Foreign Legations at Peking on the 3rd instant. It is said to be the result of the deliberations of a High Council of State expressly called to consider the present pelitical situation, and, according to our correspondent, it is doubtless intended as a sort of concession to the feelings and charged by Inspector Orley with having in opinions of the several Foreign Ministers who protested last February against the of the people :course taken by China in regard to Ch'ung How. The decree is as follows :-

AN IMPERIAL DECREE. Received 26th June, 1880. As Ch'ung How, sent as Our Envoy to Russia, violated his instructions and exceeded his nowers, and because the treaty made by him contained many stipulations which were impracticable Our High-Ministers of State in Council deliberated upon his offences and decided that he should be decapitated after the autumn assizes as a punishment befitting your Honorable Body by my Minister his guilt. But now we hear from without (outside the Palace), that this matter is discussed and that many are of opinion that the punishment of Ch'ung How on floating about eight feet off. The Constable | the part of China reflects upon the dignity of Russia. This is very far from being the design of the Imperial Throne, China has been upon a footing of amity with Russia for more than two hundred years, and it is assuredly Our desire that time ago. this may continue to the end of time, and that the amicable relations of friendly States may not be destroyed.

Ch'ung How, in obedience to Ou mandate, acting as Our Minister, without deliberate and careful negotiations with Russia, recklessly gave assent to stipulations which China cannot fulfil. He has brought his punishment upon himself. The Throne deals with him according to the statutes, and maintains that in thus acting the laws of China deal with not affected in any way. But We fear that as the report of Our action must travel to a great distance, and be transmitted from one to another, the re motives which have prompted the conduct of China in this business may not be experienced outside Sharp Peak towards the | perfectly understood, that aversion and close of last week; the wind came from the distrust may spring from a misapprehen-South-west, and there was every indication sion of Our motives, and that friendly relations will be unavoidably interfered

We, therefore, acting outside of the statutes, and as a special mark of grace remit temporarily the sentence of decapitation after the autumn assizes passed upon Ch'ung How. Let him, however be detained in prison until the Marquis Tsêng shall have reached Russia, and is shall appear how the matters at issue may be adjusted, when a further decree

Let the Marquis Tseng, upon receipt of this decree inform the Government Russia that the sentence of decapitation passed upon Ch'ung How has been temporarily remitted, and let him state that in this act is to be seen an evidence of the friendly sentiments of China towards Russia.

N. C. D. News says:--We have been also favoured with an inspection of another letter received from Peking on Saturday, dated the 4th inst., which says that "an edict had been issued by the Emperor to the effect that Ch'nng How was to be released for the present, as His Majesty had been given to understand that the Russian Government felt insulted at the way in which he was being treated, and that no desire was felt by the Government at Peking to offend that Power." From this it would seem that Ch'ung How has been pardoned solely because the treatment he at St. Petersburg. If this be true it would appear that the warparty in Peking do not now exercise the same degree of influence in the management of the affairs of the Empire that they did a few months ago which would portend a probable settle ment of the dispute arising out of the Livadia treaty without resorting to arms. That the peace party are in the accordancy would seem to be the case the sentiments of the war party, as i was supposed to do for one of the main points of the policy it propounded was Japanese prese that foreign trade (unless Ch'ung How's execution, not, however, How has received at the hands of the Government would not, it may be presumed meet with the approval of their not the Russian Charge d'Affaires alone. Thus China bas everything to gain by the pardon granted to Ch'ung How, but with only sufficient information to hand to form but a speculative idea as to the reasons that have actuated her to take the step, we doubt whether it is the outcome of an anxious feeling to solely appease the wishes of the Government at St. Petersburg, and favour the view that it is the result of the combined representations made by the whole Foreign Diplomatic Body at

JOHN BROWN.

An archaic figure in the royal domestic , life of England has recently attracted renewed attention. Mr John Brown has been converted by royal mandate into John Brown, Esquire, and a small estate purchased for him, where in the q event of the Queen's death he may end in case and peace his humble, faithful life. On the occasion of the recent royal marriage he was observed by perspiring reporters to take a forward part in flinging the slipper after the happy pair; indeed some of the cockneys who perhaps were more accustomed to registrar marriages, thought it was an ancient Whose face and form are here and mine in one, state ceremony, and resented its being done by a "menial," which is their stereotyped phrase for poor John Brown. Esquire. These same cockneys have much to answer for. Not understanding be noticed between that and a private (how could they?) the grand Highland fortune. Writing this as I do on the Queen's birthday, comment is unnecessary. Where is the man who speaks the English tongue who would not rise in wrath at a syllable against the unspotted name of our greatest queen? One is proud to hve in the same era with her. Were good John Brown to hear himself called a 'mental' by any of the plush gentry. I finey the powder would soon be flying out of their well-floured polls. Once, long ago, in Drummond Castle gardens, - the most beautiful gardens in Scotland, a show place for convists in fact,-I observed an English greyconted "tourack" as such visitors are locally called, addressing a portly Celt fully equipped in the garb of old Gaul-" Are you one of the servants here, may I ask?" said that Englishmun-" Servant, Sir! I am the piper!" And with a snort he turned away. Draumond Castle came into my head because it was in the forests of this estate, Glenartney, that the Prince Consort shot his first stag, and made John Brown's acquaintance. John was then a smart active underkeeper, keen on sport himself, and trustworthy enough to be placed in personal charge of the Prince, who was more accustomed to the formal German hunting drives than the cautious toil of the Scotch deerstalker. Stationed at a pass towards which the deer were expected to head on being alarmed, the prince, in spite of all the respectful remonstrances of John, would insist on peeping in an excited manner to watch for the stags. " Keep doon, Sir, keep doon, my lord, keep doon, yer grace," was anxiously whispered to him over and over again by the Highland man, who trembled to lose the spor himself. His honor was involved in making the prince shoot a stag. The prince, still more excited was forgetting all caution, when he felt his face buried violently in the heather, and a sinewy hand clutching the back of his neck while a gruff voice growled into his car "Keep doon yer held and be d-d to ye!" In another moment he was ordered sharply to get up and fire, which he did, like a chidden child, into the bounding mass trampling through the rough defile, and had the satisfaction of bringing down his first stag, not the last by many a score since that memorable day on which he was made " free of the forest." Though at first inclined to be angry, the zeal of his keeper struck him as particularly comic, and he took him into his own service. What would the Czar not give for a fidus Achates like this? In the Queen's service, since the death of the prince, John has not been altogether a fancy figure, as may be remembered, when some years ago a wretched madman attempted the Queen's life. The savage grip with which the excited Gael compressed the wretch's throat nearly put him beyond reach of the Queen's clemency. Who

Modern Private Wealth is a subject that seems very attractive to American papers, and they are fond of gossining about the millions (of dollars) of which the property of Astor, of Vanderbilt, of O'Brien, Flood or Fair consist. (China Review.) Since my note on the Chinese Kitchen-Good was inserted or page 418 of Volume VII.. happened to discover, that there exists a remarkable analogy between this deity and Agni, the Gol of the Fire of the ancient Brahmans. The Rigveda, that invaluable collection of hymns which were probably sung or recited by the Brahmanic priests during the performance of their religious ceremonies, centains a hymn on Agai, which enables us to compose a picture of this god, strikingly recombling that which we have projected of the Kitchen-Prince in our above-named note. We propose to analyze that hymn below. One knows that the Rigveda is the main-source from which some knowledge of ancient Brahmanism can be drawn, and that a more careful and systematical study of this ancient work has only become rossible since it has been translated by the late Max Mötler. element, and praise him as the God of the hearth and alter-fire, as the protector of the house, as high-priest and as messenger between the gods and men. * A simple nerusal of our note on page 418 of volume VII will show that the Kitchen-God of the Chinese either is, or formerly was, likewise endowed with nearly the same attributes. We will now try to elucidate this analogy farther by malyzing and comparing with our note the lymn we spoke of above. + . O Agni, nimm dies Opferscheit,

So walte lieses Opfers gleich, Und lass dich nieder auf dies Gras!-1 We learn from the first and the second stanza of this hymn, that in all probability the ancient Brahmans worshipped Agni by making a fix only, and without adding any burnt-offering to it. For in the first stanza the priest says to the god: accept this sacrificial pyre (mm dies Opferscheit), and in the second: I serve thes with this pyre and us to suggest that the god, who occurs in the this song (ick diene mit diesem Scheit und Liede dir); but he does not speak of anv sacrificial adicle at all. As it appears now from our oft-mentioned note (page 421-22) that the God of the Kitchen has, with the Amoy people, likewise the functions of heavenly messenger, we need not doubt of the fact that both he and Agni originally were either one and the same deity, or at least are twin-brothers, separately worshipped under nearly the same attributes in two different, though adjacent, parts of Asia. In ancient times, when the Chinese people still honoured their deities with burnt-offerings, their God of the kitchen may have been, like Agni, considered and adored as the natural mediator and messenger between the celestial and terrestrial beings:now-a-days, nothing but incense and mockmoney being burned on the altars of the ago, and the trebled in the last quarter people, he has, however, been degraded to the rank of a mythical spy, who reports on of a century. strongly inclined to conclude, that Agui is the Kitchen-Prince and that the Kitchen-Prince is Agni. That idea—namely of a good continually going to and fro to keep up intercourse between the gods and men-created another. viz. that of horses serving him as a means of conveyance. Hence Agni is, in the second stanza of the hymn, called "Rose- Road. bandiger," i.e. who keeps horses under restraint. And the Kitchen-God of the Amoy-Chinese is provided with horses the people, whenever he ascends to Heaven or descends from there. One voyage viceversa is made every year, and the evening of the twenty-fourth of the twelfth month is the appointed time for his godship to His object being to report to the God of Heaven on the behaviour of the family during the current year, an abundant sacrificial-meal is provided for him to propitiate his good-will, and papers having pictures of horses, chair-bearers, carriages uto, are burned for his convenience on the road. Such mock-horses carry the name hūn-bē (雲馬 or 琉馬) i.e. cloud or soul-horses, in the Amoy-tongue. When on the fourth of the first month of the following year, because the Kitchen-God is supposed to descend then again, and is received by the family with another sumptuous meal. This day is called 接 日 胂: "day of reception of the God." But to return to the hymn: -we see that in its fifth stanza Agni is evidently spoken to as a God of the Solar-fire, who not only "blesses us with the rain he makes? (Himmelsnass), but also bestows life, vigour, and nourishment of every kind on plants, animals and men. And, as fire will always flome gaily up and regain new vigour when properly kindled and stirred, it can by no means appear strange that people represented Agni as a strong, vigorous and beautiful vouth, and that the sixth stanza of the hymn accordingly calls him a "Jungling" (youth). The Chinese also say that their appears in the first place from our quotation our citation from the 四陽維俎, which we have both inserted at the beginning of page 420 of our note, and wherein it is said that the Kitchen-God looks like a beautiful girl. It is, on the other hand, confirmed by the legend which is current among the Amoy-Chinese, and which 'says that the Kitchen-God became a saint yet ere

Dysentery, Cholera, Fever, Ague, Coughs, Colds, &c. Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE

(Ex Army Med. Staff). IS THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CAUTION. - Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood stated that Dr. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the Inventor of Chlorodyne, that the story of the Defendant, Freeman, being the Inventor was deliberately untrue; which he regretted had been sworn to. Eminent Hospital Physicians of London stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the discoverer of Chlorodyne; that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's. - See Times, July 12, 1864. The public, therefore, are cautioned against using any other than DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.

REMEDIAL USES AND ACTION. This invaluable remedy produces quiet, refreshing sleep, relieves pain, calms the system, restores the deranged functions. and stimulates healthy action of the secretions of the body, without creating any of those unpleasant results attending the use of opium. Old and young may take it at all hours and times when requisite. Thousands of persons testify to its marvellous good effects and wonderful cures, while medical men extol its virtues most exten-

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for coughs, consumption, bronchitis, asthma. CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseasesdiphtheria, fever, croup, ague. Chlobodyne acts like a charm in diarrhos, and is the only specific in cholera and dysentery. CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of epilepsy, hysteria, palpitations CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in neuralgia, rhenmatism, gout, cancer, toothache, meningitia, &c.

EXTRACTS FROM MEDICAL OPINIONS. The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in Cholera was Chlorodyne,-See Lancet, Dec. 31, 1864.

From A. Montgomery, Esq., late Inspector of Hospitals, Bombay :-- Chlorodyne is a most valuable remedy in Neuralgia. Asthma, and Dysentery. To it I fairly owe my restoration to health, after eighteen months' severe suffering, and when other remedies had failed."

Dr. Lowe, Medical Missionary in India, reports (December 1865) that in nearly every case of Cholera in which Dr. J. Collis BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE was administered. the patient recovered. Extract from the General Board

Health, London, as to its efficacy in Cholera. -" So strongly are we convinced of the immense value of this remedy, that we cannot too forcibly urge the necessity of adopting it in all cases."
See leading article, Pharmaceutical Journal, August 1, 1869, which states that Dr. J. Collis Browns was the inventor of Chlorodyne; that it is always right to use his preparation when Chlorodyne is ordered. CAUTION.-None genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.

HONGKONG MARKET PRICES. Merchant Vessels in Hongkong Harbour. Corrected to Saturday, July 17th, 1880. Intimations. At 1080 Cash per Dollar Mexican. THE CHINA REVIEW. Exclusive of late Arrivals and Departures reported to-day. THE widely-expressed regret at the dis-continuance of Notes & Queries on Chesa and Japan, has induced the publishers of this journal to issue a publication similar in object and style, but slightly modified in certain details. To facilitate finding the position of any vessel in the Harbour, the Anchorage is divided into eight Sections, commencing at Green Island. Vessels near the Hongkong shore are marked h., near the Kowloong shore k., and those in the body of the 花旗烟猪肉 OHINA REVIEW, or Notes and Queries on the Far East, is issued at in-Shipping or midway between each shore are marked o., in conjunction with the figures denoting the sections.
